French Language Summer Schools

First of all, be aware that your school's French department receives a lot of information and advertisements about summer schools so start with them.

Some American colleges have language schools over the summer.
In New England, Middlebury Language Schools is one of the best. Middlebury offers intense programs from absolute beginners to the graduate level in Vermont and abroad.
No English Spoken Here® has been the motto of the Language Schools for more than 90 years.
Additionally, Harvard, TUFTS, and Berkeley offer summer sessions.

Many French universities and schools offer summer programs and language schools.
You will find further details at the Campusfrance website
http://www.campusfrance.org/fr/d-catalogue/n_univ_ete01.asp or check directly on the French universities' websites.

Examples:
A summer at the ENS, Paris
Cours de civilisation Française, Sorbonne
Stages d'Eté, Université Lyon 2
Campus International d'Eté, Université du Mans
CIECE (business + French)
Cours d'été intensifs, Université Jean Monnet de Saint-Etienne
(et aussi : Rouen, Montpellier, Aix en Provence, Grenoble etc.)

Housing : Most of these programs will help you find (or provide) housing for an additional fee.
Please contact them directly.

Prices : For a week of classes, prices range from €400 to €1000.
Again, contact the programs for more specific information.

There are private language schools in France as well.

Examples:
Accord – Paris : French courses in Paris for adults and executives. Summer programs for teens.
Centre International d'Antibes – French courses on the Riviera
ATOLL Juniors – French language camps for teenagers all over France
Azurlingua – French school for adults and teens in Nice, French Riviera

For more "French as a foreign language" schools in France, please visit http://www.qualitefle.fr/Avant_propos.aspx

For a complete list, please also visit http://www.europa-pages.com/france/