Study in France
Junior year abroad

Your very first step is to contact your school's office of international programs/ study abroad.

They will be able to give you the right information about:

♦their particular study abroad and exchange programs

♦other study abroad programs you may apply to (affiliated programs, approved external programs…)

♦the procedures you will have to go through

A few examples of very good programs :

Brown University : Office of International Programs	Boston University : BU International Programs
"Brown's programs in 14 countries span the globe and offer opportunities for students from all academic backgrounds. In partnership with Brown faculty, the OIP has created semester and year-long programs that challenge students to step outside of their comfort zones and forge a new identity in their host community." http://www.brown.edu/Administration/OIP/programs/	"We offer an unmatched variety of academic and internship programs in more than 30 cities on six continents. Every year, students from Boston University and over 150 other colleges and universities nationwide enjoy the opportunity to study language, liberal arts, fine arts, science, business, engineering, or pursue an internship. Our job is to help students realize their dreams to study and intern abroad." http://www.bu.edu/abroad/
Boston College : Office of International Programs:	Middlebury College: Middlebury International
"We are proud of our comprehensive network of more than 60 academic partnerships in over 30 countries worldwide. Each year more than 1,000 students from all fields of study and with varied foreign language backgrounds participate in tailored programs during the academic year and in our faculty-lead summer programs abroad." http://www.bc.edu/offices/international/home.html	"Middlebury has schools abroad at more than 40 universities in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, China, Egypt, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Russia, Spain, and Uruguay. Each year about 60% of the junior class at Middlebury studies abroad in more than 90 different programs and universities." http://www.middlebury.edu/international/sa
